

Writing competition

With a sprinkle of inspiration, little ideas can grow into big ideas.

READ
GROW
Inspire

Write a short story about your best idea ever.

I had an idea that.....

In the future, there will be a massive, tall tower that fits the entire world's population. Every family will have their own space, and there will be robots making food that will be delivered to each house on conveyor belts. There will be lots of farms, run by robots, and lots of space left for nature to flourish. People will have regular timetables including exercise so they will not become lazy. There will be underground swimming pools with water slides going into them from the top of the tower. A grand library with recommendation walls will reside within the tower. Everyone will be happy. Every car will be electric and for every tree we cut down we will plant two new ones. Maybe, just maybe, we might be able to make this world possible.