Write a short story about your best idea ever.

There was a dog who wanted to open a dog cafe. On wednesday he started building and building intill it was perfect. He opened at thursday 9pm. When he saw no customers he was devastated. What did I do wrong he thought to his self. "Wait I need a menu" He said in hope. The next day people came but it was a lot of work for a pup. He had to make coffe, milkshakes, cakes and more. By the end of day he made $123 dollars. What should I buy he thought? "I should buy ~~an~~ ^{an} outfit" he said. He asked a designer to make him an apron with cats, dogs, fish and more. The next day he had more customers but he could hardly handle it. After his cafe closed he counted his money he had $363 dollars.

"If I keep buying things more customers will come I could hardly handle yesterday," he said. "Wait tomorrow's Sunday the ^{most} busy day of the week. The next day. Oh no! There's hundreds of customers waiting." "Hello customers I'm Charlie" he said worried. "We want food" chanted the customers. Hours later. "That was crazy I did not have a chance serving all of them and now they won't come back." Charlie sobbed quietly. "Unless I hire someone" he said happily hoping it would work. He grabbed his laptop and pressed the button to Hire someone. Who will it be we don't know?
