SOCK disaster

I was so bored, I was sitting on a bench thinking about my life decisions. I was working on a book about a sock monster. Out of nowhere "SOCK" a sock monster jumped at me so I ran toward the nearby forest. It was dark in there the out of nowhere a 5 metre sock monster jumped at me last time I saw it it was only 1 metre how did it grow so quickly "SOCK". Ahhhh where should I run now over there a golf course that will be perfect place to hide I look behind me the sock monster right on my tail. I was finally at the golf course. And I jump into one of the sand bunkers. Then the sock monster came through the gates then the golfers started hitting the sock monster with their golf clubs that was enough to scare it away.
