

Writing competition

With a sprinkle of inspiration, little ideas can grow into big ideas.

Write a short story about your best idea ever.

On the tip of a night a legend was born at Wobbeyony Hospital from Sully and Ben Little did they know that this baby would grow to be a genius. When he came out, he ~~alreat~~ saw the first thing on the bed, a book. Somehow, he already knew how to read. It was a jaw dropping and fantastic sight. His parents named him Hugo.

At the age of 2, Hugo already knew how to go to the toilet and ~~at~~ didn't a parent to go with him. Showers were easy and could eat independently. By the age of 6, he read millions of books that only a seven year old could read in a week and could do 6th grade work at the age of seven. This was not only fascinating but he was as smart as an adult.

Throughout his life Hugo continued to grow and read more and more books. At the age of 10, he was a pert professor. He ~~was~~ had ~~an~~ a intelligent brain and soon enough he read all the books in the whole ~~in~~ entire world.

Writing competition

With a sprinkle of inspiration, little ideas can grow into big ideas.

READ
GROW
Inspire

Write a short story about your best idea ever.

He inspired children to read books and became a worldwide rolemodel to children and they got inspired and started being fond ~~as~~ of books.