Reading is magic and can transport you to amazing and curious places.

Write a short story about a wonderful and magical place.

Hi, I'm here to tell you a story about a boy named Jack and his sister, Ava. Oh!

How could I forget, Nikles the pony. These three friends were very curious...

and lived in a warm, cozy hut.

One day James wandered into the garden, but then he tripped! "Oh no!" he said, and then, "rubble, rubble, being bouncel!" And down the hill he went, then suddenly, "CRASH!"

He found himself in a mysterious hut. Meanwhile, Nikles and Ava came running towards him. "Woaa!" they all said as they stared at a staff.

It was a beautiful sight, it was a wooden staff holding a orange gem on top. Jack went to pick it up. "NO!" Ava shouted but Jack wasn't listening. "HOODOO!" "RRRRRIPI!"

Everything was in the air! Jack was shocked and dropped the staff, "thump!" "phew!" they all said.

The next day on the news it said, "good evening everyone this is ABC news. Scientists say the earth has been pulled 1 centimeter of orbit!" They all glanced at each other pale, "oh no" they ran back to the hut, Jack practiced and practiced and practiced! Then Jack pulled the earth back to orbit and he even learned how to use the staff safely! The next day on the news it said, "good morning everyone this is ABC news and it turns out the earth has been pulled back to orbit!"

Not the end...
