

Olivia & The amazing Candy Land

This is the 100% true story about me, Olivia, saving children all around the world from a child eating witch when I was 11.

"Ugh!" I moan, "where am I?" My head hurts and my eye sight is blurry. Slowly, I get up and wobble a little but after a few minutes, I can see better and can stand up properly but my head still hurts a little. I look at my surroundings and realise I am in Candy Land. The clouds are made of cotton candy, the tree trunks are made out of liquorice and the leaves are all made of gummies.

"Oh my God! This is my five years old dream come true!" I squeal. Then, I start running around and tasting everything.

"This is made of candy!"

"The buildings are made of biscuits and frosting!"

After a while of eating, I feel tired and find this house that has shadows moving inside. Suddenly, the door slammed open. "Who goes there?" yelled a gruff voice. Then, the voice softens. "Oh, hello, young lady. You look tired. How about you stay here for the night and I can look after you." I look up and there is an old lady in front of me. When I walk past her, I see that her clothes are all black and with her pointed hat. I realise that she is a witch!

Before I can turn around, she closes the door behind and locks it. I try to grab the key but the old lady is too fast. "Nah ah ah," mused the lady. Then she let me sleep in a comfortable bed. The next day, I am in a cage! Then I see a note hanging in front of me. So I read it and it says:

Dear Olivia, You have been chosen to do this special quest, which is to stop this witch that has caught you from eating anymore children.

Your Sincerely, The Universe.

I think fast and suddenly realise that the bars are squishy and are liquorice. Even though I didn't like liquorice I bit it and spat it out. This is for every living kid, I thought. When there was a hole big enough for me to climb through, then I run as fast as I can with my legs, luckily to be the fastest girl in my grade, stole the key to the door, silently opened the door and ran into the woods not looking back. When I reached a distance far away from the witch lady and her house, I lay down, so tired that I even fell asleep on candy leaves! The next day I'm back in bed at home. I notice a note in my pillow. I read it.

It says this:

Dear Olivia,

Great job on completing the quest! But I heard there was an alien on planet Android 1397 trying to explode another alien planet. Do you want to do it?

From the Universe. I smiled and knew I have a whole new life of adventures.
